

Mossley Hollins High School

Child on Child Abuse Policy

Policy October 2022

Review Period: bi-annually

1. Introduction

- 1.1 The Governors, all staff, volunteers and the whole community at Mossley Hollins High School is committed to the early identification, intervention against, and prevention of, all forms of child-on child abuse, both in and out of school. We commit to the following values and strategies:
- a. In order to protect and safeguard children, the school should be aware of the complexities of the risks which students may face and create and enforce a clear and comprehensive strategy which is suited to all their safeguarding needs.
  - b. That it is the responsibility of the school to enforce its whole-school approach in response to child-on-child abuse.
  - c. That this policy is created to PREVENT child-on-child abuse and that it is not acceptable merely to adopt a reactive approach to child-on-child abuse as a response to an alleged serious incident.
  - d. We recognise national and heightened concerns about these issues – particularly in light of the Everyone’s Invited platform (2021) and the OFSTED review of sexual abuse in schools and Colleges – and the even greater need to ensure that the school’s students are safe at all times and that this policy is central to this approach.
  - e. We encourage parents to participate in our procedures so that if a student is made to feel unsafe by the behaviour of one of their peers, they should inform the school immediately so that immediate and proportionate action can be taken.
- 1.2 This policy is the over-arching policy for any issue that could constitute child-on-child abuse. It should be read alongside the following policies:
- Safeguarding (Child Protection),
  - Acceptable use of ICT policy
  - Behaviour,
  - Anti-Bullying Policy,
  - Anti-Racism Policy
- 1.3 The policy does not use the terms “perpetrator” and “abuser”. This is because the school actively adopts a safeguarding approach to all those involved in allegations of, or concerns about, child-on-child abuse. Research shows that some young people who engage in such abuse have sometimes been victims of it themselves, and that they are therefore vulnerable, and that context is vital in assessing such harmful behaviour, and in deciding any sanctions which may apply.
- 1.4 This policy refers to “students” or “young people” who are both defined as being under 18 years old, but this policy also reflects the school’s commitment to a wider approach to safeguarding. We recognise that there may be additional considerations in relation to students who are over 18, or under 10, in terms of how local agencies or partners respond. In addition, the school’s approach to student-produced sexual imagery will differ, depending on the age of the students involved.
- 1.5 This policy will be reviewed bi-annually (and at any other time during the course of the year as necessary) to ensure that it consistently addresses the risks to which students are being, or may be, exposed. Staff and students will be involved in the review of the policy in order to inform the assessment of the impact and effectiveness of the policy during the previous year.

In addition, this policy builds on

- Sexual violence and sexual harassment between children in schools and colleges \(September 2021\)
- Keeping Children Safe in Education \(September 2022\),
- Sexting in schools and colleges: responding to incidents and safeguarding children \(UKCCIS\),

- Farrer and Co. Peer-on-Peer Abuse Toolkit, 2021.

What is Child on Child Abuse

- 2.1 Child-on-child abuse is defined as “any form of physical, sexual and emotional and financial abuse, and coercive control, exercised between children and within children’s relationships, both intimate and non-intimate” (Abuse between young people: a contextual account (Routledge 2017).
- 2.2 All staff should be aware that child-on-child abuse takes many forms. This is most likely to include, but is not limited to (KCSIE 2022 – Paragraph 452):
- sexual comments, such as: telling sexual stories, making lewd comments, making sexual remarks about clothes and appearance and calling someone sexualised names
  - sexual “jokes” or taunting
  - physical behaviour, such as: deliberately brushing against someone, interfering with someone’s clothes. Schools and colleges should be considering when any of this crosses a line into sexual violence – it is important to talk to and consider the experience of the victim.
  - displaying pictures, photos or drawings of a sexual nature
  - upskirting (this is a criminal offence), and
  - online sexual harassment. This may be standalone, or part of a wider pattern of sexual harassment and/or sexual violence. It may include:
    - consensual and non-consensual sharing of nude and semi-nude images and/or videos. Taking and sharing nude photographs of U18s is a criminal offence. UKCIS Sharing nudes and semi-nudes: advice for education settings working with children and young people provides detailed advice for schools and colleges.
    - sharing of unwanted explicit content
    - sexualised online bullying
    - unwanted sexual comments and messages, including, on social media o sexual exploitation; coercion and threats, and
    - coercing others into sharing images of themselves or performing acts they’re not comfortable with online
- 2.3 All child-on-child abuse is unacceptable and will be taken seriously. Staff must be aware that young people may be abused out of school but should not minimise the potential risks of child on child abuse within school too.

2.4 We recognise that child-on-child abuse must be addressed in the terms of the context in which it occurs. Contextual safeguarding recognises an approach which understands the harm and abuse to which young people can be exposed beyond their families.

2.5 As the school operates a contextual approach to safeguarding, it recognises the need to work alongside a Local Safeguarding Partnership, rather than just referring young people to it.

- This means that we will be aware of, and will seek to understand, the effect that wider social contexts will be having on young people.
- That we are also committed to creating a safe culture within school by implementing all the policies and procedures that address child-on-child abuse.
- That we are committed to creating healthy relationships and attitudes to gender/sexuality and all forms of difference.
- That we will provide training for staff and students on potential bias and stereotyping and commit to an inclusive approach for all members of our community.
- That we will commit to identifying potential geographical “hotspots” on the school site which could be risky for students, thus improving the pre-existing school environment for students.
- These “hot spots” can also include certain year groups, friendship clusters etc.
- We will be alert to, and monitor, changes in students’ behaviour, emotional well-being and attendance.
- In working with local agencies, we will contribute to the debate and implementation of child protection decisions by challenging threshold decisions which do not seem to be in the interest of the young person and will consistently refer cases using a contextual approach.

3 How widespread is child on child abuse

Research suggests child-on-child abuse is one of the most prevalent forms of abuse affecting young people in the UK.

When does behaviour become problematic or abusive?

All behaviour takes place on a spectrum as suggested by Professor Simon Hackett. In order to respond appropriately, we need to understand where a young person’s behaviour falls on this spectrum. Below is Professor Hackett’s model which demonstrates the range of sexual behaviour which can be presented by young people. It is not exhaustive but offers a means by which we can understand this behaviour and react to it sensitively and proportionately.

Sexual behaviours continuum model

4 Are some students more vulnerable than other to child on child abuse?

4.1 The influence of peers is possibly the most significant factor in a young person's social development and, as such, anyone can be subject to child-on-child abuse. However, there are certain groups who may be more at risk than others. For example, those with protected characteristics such as:

- Those who are socially isolated from their peer-group
- Those who are questioning their sexuality and identity
- Those with SEND needs: and a school must be careful not merely to assume that indicators of possible abuse relate only to their specific learning needs and are not investigated beyond this assumption
- Those with different ethnicity, race or religious beliefs.

4.2 Research also suggests that child-on-child abuse can affect boys and girls differently and so MHHS must explore gender dynamics within its individual context and recognise, and address, those factors within both a single-sex environment, but also if factors outside school are involved.

5 How can we create a whole school approach to preventing child on child abuse?

MHHS is actively committed to education for its entire community – staff, students, parents, governors and volunteers – in raising awareness of, identifying, and preventing, child-on-child abuse.

This strategy will include:

- an understanding of contextual safeguarding

- the identification of specific behaviour, including on-line activities, by encouraging young people to use social media responsibly and training them to identify and manage digitally abusive behaviour
- ensuring that even low-level concerns are followed up and never dismissing any form of concern as mere “banter” or “teasing”
- via the education of young people about the widespread nature of child-on-child abuse. This should include Assemblies, Life skills/PSHE lessons and Drop Down Days about consent, etc but also in the wider school curriculum where equality and respect should be promoted at all times.

Students should be regularly informed about the harmful effects of this abuse and the vulnerabilities of those who experience it, alongside possible reasons for such behaviour.

They should be clear about what actions to take if they witness such abuse and that the school operates a zero-tolerance approach to such incidents.

Parents should also be involved via public events and face-to-face meetings to promote this policy.

They should be regularly consulted as to their view of perceived risks to students and how the school can most effectively address them.

6 Enforcing positive culture

- The entire school community – governors, staff, volunteers, students and parents – should work together to promote a positive culture of tolerance and respect amongst all its members.
- The whole school culture should be built upon a foundation of fostering healthy and respectful relationships for all.
- Every member of the community has a part to play in ensuring that abusive behaviour is never acceptable and that everyone contributes to creating this safe environment.
- Students should feel able to share their concerns in an open and non-judgemental environment and that staff are trained to develop these trusting relationships.
- Staff should encourage positive qualities in students and encourage them to attain their goals and ambitions, realising that supervised activities offered to students might give them protection against abusive behaviour.
- Staff should respond to cases of child-on-child abuse promptly and appropriately. This involves informing the school’s safeguarding team so that they can spot concerning trends and patterns in behaviour and offer additional support to students. This is achieved via a weekly safeguarding/priority student meetings where attitudes that underlie such abuse are challenged, involving cases both in and outside of the classroom.

7 Multi-Agency Working

7.1 The school actively engages with its Thameside Safeguarding Partnership in relation to child-on-child abuse and works closely with the local authority, the police and other relevant agencies in accordance with the Thameside Safeguarding Partnership’s procedures, as well as with other schools.

7.2 These are essential relationships in preventing, early identifying, and appropriately handling, child on-child abuse. It is also important for students and staff to understand the referral pathways which are available in the area and for students to be able to access them quickly.

- 7.3 Working together with local agencies is, furthermore, crucial in supporting and helping to inform the local community about the school's response to child-on-child abuse, as well as allowing for an understanding of any underlying trends and patterns of behaviour which are emerging in this wider context.
- 7.4 Often, child-on-child abuse cases are complex and where the incident cannot be managed by the school itself, it is imperative that effective partnership working is involved, especially when wider safeguarding concerns exist.

8 General Principles

All concerns and allegations of child-on-child abuse must be handled promptly, sensitively, and appropriately. These responses can have a significant impact on the environment of a school.

8.1 All responses should:

- Include a thorough investigation of the concerns and allegations in the wider context in which they occur
- Assess whether it is appropriate for the police or Children's Services to carry out this process
- Treat all young people involved as at potential risk. This should also include the young person who is allegedly responsible for the abuse as they may have unmet needs and be at risk themselves
- Ensure that a safeguarding response is in place for both the child who has allegedly been abused, and anyone who is alleged to be responsible for it and understand that sanctions may need to be applied for the latter.

8.2 Take into account that

- the abuse may indicate wider safeguarding concerns for all those involved and address the impact of wider contexts, such as peer groups, family, school environment, local community, previous experiences of crime and victimisation and the young person's online presence
- in order to mitigate risk, changes may need to be made to some of the above
- the complexity of the interplay between power, choice and consent and consider that a young person cannot consent if their choices are being limited
- the DSL or Deputy DSL should discuss any referral with the young person and their parents/carers before it is made and obtain consent. This may not be possible if a referral has to be made immediately, however
- the school should manage the young person's expectations of information sharing and keep them and their parents/carers informed of developments where appropriate and safe to do so
- significantly, the wishes of the young person who has allegedly been abused must be taken into account and given as much control as is reasonably possible over decisions regarding an investigation and how they will be supported.

9 What should be done if a child is suspected of being at risk of being abused by their peers, or that a young person may be at risk of abusing, or is abusing their peers?

- All the above factors should be discussed with the DSL or Deputy DSL immediately who will adhere to the School's Safeguarding (Child Protection) Policy and then agree a course of action.
- Where a young person is suffering, or is likely to suffer, a referral to Children's Services should be made (and to the police, if appropriate) immediately.
- Anyone can make a referral. If it is not made by the DSL, they should be informed as soon as possible that a referral has been made
- If a child speaks to a member of the staff about child-on-child abuse, the member should listen in a non-judgemental fashion and offer understanding and sensitive responses.

10 How will the school respond to concerns about or allegations of, child on child abuse? (Paragraph 484 – KCISE 2022)

- The DSL or Deputy DSL will discuss with the reporting member of staff and, where necessary, take immediate steps to ensure the safety of all young people affected.
- Where allegations concern the sharing of images of children on-line, the DSL or Deputy DSL should consider what urgent action can be taken to those set out in this. They should seek specialist help in preventing the images spreading further and remove the images from the here possible.
- In such cases, the DSL or Deputy DSL should use their professional judgement to assess the nature and seriousness of the alleged behaviour and determine whether the alleged behaviour should be dealt with internally or whether external support is required
- In borderline cases, the DSL or Deputy DSL may want to consult with Children's Services and other relevant agencies
- Where the DSL or Deputy DSL believes, or suspects, that a young person is being subjected to abusive or violent behaviour, they should contact Children's Services and/or the police immediately, and certainly within 24 hours of the DSL or Deputy DSL being made aware of the alleged behaviour.
- The DSL or Deputy DSL will discuss the allegations with the external agency and then agree a plan which may include:
  - management of the case internally but with help from external agencies, where appropriate
  - the school contributing to an inter-agency early help assessment to enable the young person's and those of their families, needs to be targeted
  - refer the young person(s) to Children's Services for a Section 17 (Child in Need) or a Section 47 (Child Protection) statutory assessment as appropriate
  - report alleged criminal behaviour to the police. (There may be some circumstances where it is not appropriate to report such behaviour, however, and all cases will be treated on an individual basis, and in conjunction with their wider context.)

11 Risk Management Plans

- The school will always carry out a safety plan with regard to:
  - any young person who is considered to have behaved abusively or violently
  - any child who has allegedly been abused directly or affected by the alleged abusive or violent behaviour by a peer
  - any young person who is deemed at risk from another young person in the judgement of the DSL or Deputy DSL.

- If a child is considered to have behaved inappropriately, but not in a violent or abusive fashion, the DSL or Deputy DSL would apply their professional judgement in the context of the young person's individual needs and context, to ascertain whether it would be appropriate to contact Children's Services and carry out a Risk Management Plan.
- If there is any concern that a young person may be being abused by another young person, a consultation with Children's Services should be carried out.
- here other young people have witnessed alleged abuse or violent behaviour, the DSL or Deputy DSL should assess the risk to them and consider whether a safety plan would be appropriate for their needs.

12 Sharing of information, data protection and record keeping

- When responding to allegations of abuse, or concerns about abuse, the school will:
  - always consult external agencies in order to best decide how to share information about the concerns or allegations affecting students, their parents, staff and other individuals involved
  - record all necessary information for all the participating agencies and respond to the concerns or allegations within a safeguarding context
  - ensure that the third party has agreed to handle the information securely and only use it for the agreed legal purpose.
  - consult, and act in accordance with, its safeguarding and data protection duties, including those set out in Working Together to Safeguard Children \(July 2018\) and HM Government Advice on Information Sharing \(July 2018\).

13 Disciplinary Action

- The school may want to consider disciplinary action for any young person involved in child-on- child abuse; however, if there are police proceedings underway, or they are pending, it is crucial that the school works in partnership with the police and/or Children's Services.
- Even if external agencies are not involved, the school may still need to consider sanctions in order to ensure positive behaviour in the future. This may include the young person taking responsibility for their actions and realising the gravity of them, thus demonstrating to other students that child-on-child abuse will never be tolerated.
- Before deciding on any action, the school will always consider its duty to safeguard all young people in its care.
- It should also take into account the underlying reasons for any abusive behaviour and the severity, and the causes of any abuse suffered by a young person.
- Exclusion will only be considered as a last resort and in cases where the safety and wellbeing of other students is at risk.
- In the case of an exclusion, due care must be given when sharing information with a student's new school in order to allow students in the receiving school to be protected, as well as the leaving student.

However, disciplinary interventions rarely solve child-on-child abuse and so the school's first resort should be to wider actions and to what can be learned from such cases in the school's future planning and behavioural strategies to combat abuse.

14 How can a school continue to seek to improve its approach to contextual safeguarding?

- The school should continue to work to embed its approach to contextual safeguarding by involving the whole school community in its strategies and approach.
- It should regularly review its practices by asking such questions as:
  - what protective factors and influences exist in school to prevent child-on-child abuse and how can we strengthen and highlight them?
  - does the school's physical environment and the students' journeys to and from school contribute to this abuse and how can we mitigate this risk?
  - how can the school mitigate the risk posed by the online environment and encourage a positive and safe use of digital technology?
  - do wider gender norms, equality issues and/or societal issues contribute to the abuse?
  - what was the relationship between the abuse and the cultural norms between staff and students and how can these be evaluated and addressed in the future?
  - does the abuse indicate a lack of staff training in particular areas and how can these needs be met?
  - how have similar cases been handled in the past? What effect have they had, and what has been learned from them?
  - are distinct patterns and trends emerging from the way in which the school handles these cases which can then be fed into future staff training?
  - are these issues occurring in other local schools and is there the need for a multi- agency response to them?
  - what has the school learned from past cases which can be addressed via the Life skills/PSHE/RSE curriculum, and should it be improving its provision in terms of education in matters of consent, respect, equality, avoiding victim-blaming narratives, etc?
  - are there lessons to be learned from the way in which the school engages with parents concerning child-on-child abuse cases?
  - have certain types of young people been highlighted by cases of abuse and should the school be working with them to build confidence and teaching them how to identify and manage child-on-child abuse?
  - should the school have intervened earlier and in a different manner?
  - has the pupil voice been heard with regard to developing an on-going strategy to avert child-on-child abuse?

Appendix 1: Definition of Sexual Violence

From Sexual violence and sexual harassment between children in schools and colleges: Advice for governing bodies, proprietors, headteachers, principals, senior leadership teams and designated safeguarding leads \(September 2021\)

It is important that schools and colleges are aware of sexual violence and the fact children can, and sometimes do, abuse their peers in this way. When referring to sexual violence in this advice, we do so in the context of child-on-child sexual violence.

For the purpose of this advice, when referring to sexual violence we are referring to sexual offences under the Sexual Offences Act 2003 as described below:

Rape: A person (A) commits an offence of rape if: he intentionally penetrates the vagina, anus or mouth of another person (B) with his penis, B does not consent to the penetration and A does not reasonably believe that B consents.

Assault by Penetration: A person (A) commits an offence if: s/he intentionally penetrates the vagina or anus of another person (B) with a part of her/his body or anything else, the penetration is sexual, B does not consent to the penetration and A does not reasonably believe that B consents.

Sexual Assault: A person (A) commits an offence of sexual assault if: s/he intentionally touches another person (B), the touching is sexual, B does not consent to the touching and A does not reasonably believe that B consents.

What is consent? Consent is about having the freedom and capacity to choose. Consent to sexual activity may be given to one sort of sexual activity but not another, e.g. to vaginal but not anal sex or penetration with conditions, such as wearing a condom. Consent can be withdrawn at any time during sexual activity and each time activity occurs. Someone consents to vaginal, anal or oral penetration only if s/he agrees by choice to that penetration and has the freedom and capacity to make that choice.

- a child under the age of 13 can never consent to any sexual activity;
- the age of consent is 16;
- sexual intercourse without consent is rape.
